

By John Lee

mediathreat@gmail.com

646-552-2425

2030 - Near future, wide swaths of the population are out of work due to the rise of Artificial Intelligence and Robotics , that removes millions of jobs nationwide. The crisis has deepened the gulf between the socio-economic stratas, Brooklyn now has a central core downtown of shiny super skyscrapers where the rich are entrenched while the rest of Brooklyn has become a wasteland of disaffected youth living parasitically off each other in an underground economy.

3 Young Hackers lead by Dale infiltrate a wealthy man's home with help from their pet drone and put a helmet on his head with a homemade fMRI that literally steals the memories of whoever it is put on. They rob him of his memories and take to the bowels of Brooklyn in their spray paint covered van and sell his memories to the depressed and poor. The memories are so vivid it gives the wearer the feeling of really tasting and feeling everything as though they are there. Food, Sex, the Bathroom, The Success. All incredibly intensely real for the viewer.

The line of customers for the experience in the van goes around the corner - all eager to pay to escape their reality for even a minute. Dale and her crew make ofshitload of cash and toss it around in the van at each other.

They ride off to get fucked up and eat a good meal they haven't been able to afford in a long time. They take a minute to sit down to enjoy the memories themselves.

When Dale goes into the memories ,she attempts to get the rich guys bank account information but she winds up seeing and experiences feelings in the man's life. The man is beating his girlfriend - violently and he has potentially committed indirectly murder to keep his business alive - the dark acts feel super real to her and freak her out as she gets deep into the psyche and unhappiness of another human being who appears to have it all.

The van is parked - stealing electricity from a city lamp post to charge up their electric van and to power the VR memory headset. A routine patrol of cops spots their illegal pilfering of electricity. Her partners in crime Felipe and Marcus drive off , ripping the power cord from the lamp post and causing the helmet to malfunction. The helmet starts smoking and Dale convulses from a mental embolism. The memory has been corrupted! Her friends try to pull the helmet off but in her mind she finds herself in black limbo , weird geometric shapes and a giant head of the guy whose memory they stole haunts her frightening her and she falls into the darkest recesses of his Id.

After a few swift turns using short cuts in Brooklyn, they are able to shake the police and hide the van. Her friends pull the smoldering helmet off her and She manages to crack a melancholy smile , lucky to be alive - but profoundly changed.

She fixes the helmet with her trusty soldering iron, as the van pulls up to another wealthy high rise. Looks like Dale and Crew will be at it again.

The characters:

Dale - Dale is a 22 year old African American woman from the projects of Brooklyn. She's a self-taught computer hacker, who is great with a soldering iron. She developed her skills alone since her parents were out scavenging and never at home. She dreams of having a job - the idea of just sitting at a cubicle comfortably eating a bagel and coffee in front of monitor is the best fantasy ever - but nobody she knows has a job and they seem to be offered to everyone who already has one. While she waits for that dream to come true , she makes cash on the streets with her best friends from childhood using her hacker skills.

Felipe - 22 year Puerto-Rican man, He's a bit hulking in size and rough around the edges. He rocks his hair with crazy geometric shapes that are outlined with reflective tape. He also sports graffiti tag tattoos on each of his eachs. He and Dale are super close. They lives in same building and used to pass notes between their windows with a string when their internet was out. He knows quite a bit about cars and electrical systems , although in their current era, stealing them is almost impossible with all computers installed in them, but Felipe drives a pre-self-driving Van that has no computers or GPS in it that he converted to electric power. He keeps it powered up by stealing electricity from the cities lamp posts. He knows Marcus has crush on Dale, but he and Dale are so close he hasn't figured out yet how he feels about it.

Marcus - Is 23 year old Korean kid who met Dale and Felipe in grade school. Marcus grew up in a group home nearby after losing his parents in the work riots for 2020. Marcus plays around with chemistry and CRISPR gene editing tools, he loves getting creative with science. He cooks up everything from nootropics to knock out drugs for their crew to sell. He stole the fMRI from high school that Dale coded into the Helmet for their current caper. He has a crush on Dale , but is still trying to find iit in himself to show her he likes her more than a friend.

